Summary of reasons
for classification:

The DVD entitled Diabolic Pop Shots is classified as:
Objectionable.

Diabolic Pop Shots is classified as objectionable because of the high extent and degree to which, and the manner in which, the publication deals with degrading, dehumanising and demeaning sexual conduct and presentation. The publication contains numerous scenes in which women performers are treated as men's sexual utilities, which has the overall effect of representing women as inherently inferior to men.

Each sequence in the feature presents footage in which a woman is treated as a display surface for ejaculate by one or more men. The camerawork emphasises each woman's lack of control over the situation. Most of the trailers also contain degrading, dehumanising and demeaning aspects.

The classification of this publication interferes with the freedom of expression as set out in s14 of the New Zealand Bill of Rights Act 1990. This outcome is consistent, however, with Parliament's intention that publications that depict sexual conduct that is highly degrading, dehumanising and demeaning to such an extent and degree that women are presented as inherently inferior are deemed to be objectionable. The classification is also a reasonable limitation on the freedom of expression that reflects the concern of a free and democratic society to limit the availability of publications that present people in this manner.
